Committee on Activism I. Presentations of activist groups

Presentation & Exchange with YES/IUSY Political Economy Working Group. Neil Warner

The YES/IUSY Political Economy Working Group is a working group established in October 2015 through a joint collaboration between members of the Young European Socialists (YES) and International Union of Socialist Youth (IUSY). Its purpose is to develop a network on the issue of political economy for activists in socialist youth organisations from around the world in order to promote education in political economy within socialist youth organisations, develop and exchange ideas and information on political economy and economic policy, and organise international campaigns. It also aims to broaden the horizons of socialist youth organisations by engaging with wider left politics, grassroots and civil society activism and left-wing academia. The presentation covers:

1. the structure and activities of the working group;
2. the Political Economy Programme which written by the group over the course of 2017;
3. its 2018 International Campaign Against Tax Evasion.

This will be followed by an exchange with participants how it could engage and develop projects with outside activists, including members of the IIPPE.

Good Societies. Laura Basu

Good Societies is a new activist project taking place in Amsterdam. In an age of economic, political and ecological turmoil, it is more important than ever to open our imaginations and formulate real alternatives to our current social arrangements. The Good Societies project offers a space to come together to reflect on what a 'good' society might look like. It consists of regular workshops and a reading group combining non-fiction and fiction. We tackle questions like: what economic models would a good society have? What political systems? What would gender look like in a good society? Would we have nation-states? The events are open, and the aim is to create a welcoming atmosphere in which we can really get somewhere in developing our ideas together. We're also looking to work with all kinds of groups and individuals to create exhibitions, screenings, publications, media content, and other activities. At IIPPE, we will discuss the aims and format of the project, possible collaborations, and begin a conversation about what a 'good society' means to the people at the conference.

Committee on Activism II. Film on agricultural labour struggles in Turkey

Findiktan Sonra (Gone with the Hazelnuts). Melek Mutioglu Ozkesen (film, 40 min)

This documentary depicts the struggle of a small community against capitalism. It tells the story of the village of Çiçekpınar, from the district Akçakoca in Düzce Province, Turkey.

The documentary shows the changes in agricultural labour from the 1930s to the 2000s, the transformation of the village's social structure, how villagers became bosses of their seasonal workers and how they treat them, and many other situations. It shows how Çiçekpınar villagers experienced a transition from a self-sufficient, solidarist, communal social form of agriculture in the pre-hazelnut period to the post-hazelnut, hierarchical period, in which each person is responsible for their own work.

A miniature story of transition from pre-capitalism to capitalism, "Gone with the Hazelnuts" documents a dramatic micro-level example of our lives transforming from 'economy for human's sake' to 'human lives for economy's sake' and what happened to these villagers, who "have given up their intention not to produce more than necessary for a cheerful life."

Committee on Activism III. Artist works on sustainability and debt

Preparations. Amanda Heidel (presentation, 30 min)

Preparations is an ongoing living experiment of practicing and learning to prepare. Through this sense of urgency and an interest in materiality I use what I find that grows, transforms, and has life force – to help relearn ways of existing that nurture quieter ways of treating myself, others, and the planet. The short film and book Preparations, 2017, documents these processes and describes my current project, the collaborative (mushroom farm).

SCHULD. Manuela Johanna Covini (film, 43 min)

The film SCHULD is the second part of a trilogy; it draws from the idea that change and transformation is based on the interaction of different behavioral patterns. Those constructions are steadily shifting. SCHULD is focused on the coherencies of this collage in a non-narrative investigation. What is the difference between debt, fault and guilt?

Committee on Activism IV. Films about historical representations of political events

Breathing Still. Jill Daniels (film + presentation, 30 min)

Part activist work, part essay film, 'Breathing Still' is a compelling portrait of Berlin, at a time when the right-wing nationalist party AfD wins members in the German parliament for the first time. Weaving together voice-over, stills, archival and found footage, Daniels' flaneuse, a follower of the Marxist revolutionary Rosa Luxemburg, who was assassinated by the Freikorps fascists nearly a century ago, explores Berlin's streets and the city's memorials to Luxemburg and the Jews who once lived there. Winner of Jury Award for Documentary at Small Axe @ Tolpuddle Radical Film Festival 2018.

de fac-to. Ekaterina Shapiro-Obermair & Alexandra Wachter (film, 30 min)

"de fac-to" is about appropriating and re-interpreting history in post-factual society. Structured like a calendar, the film shows a variety of political, social and ethnic groups as they commemorate events of World War II. The emphasis is on the formal language and performative nature of these annual rituals. Notwithstanding the gravity of the historical background, the superimposition of various semantic layers at times leads to unintentional comedy. The project illustrates the complex coexistence of contrary realities in one post-soviet city. By way of well-known historical facts the viewer is plunged into regional conflicts and conventions. The film was shot in Lviv in the years 2016 and 2017.

Committee on Activism V. Film/performance on ecology, technology and capitalism

Crack. Emilia Izquierdo (film + presentation, 25 min)

Crack (2018) is a video art work that investigates the relationship between the cosmos and the political through fire and cracking ice, power and abuse of power. Using footage of cosmic motion and technological exploration, animations created from classic film scenes, and news footage of political power games and abuse of power, the piece explores the intertwining of politics, personal interactions, nature and technology. The video is part of a trilogy exploring our relationship to technology, politics and the cosmos intermixing animation, archival footage and video. 'Blind Light/White Noise' (2016) explores today's blurred divide between nature and technology. 'Eclipse' (2017) explores the relationship between society and the cosmos, and our relationship with the digital/technological through the process of combining violence, totalitarianism, political power games, the fight for social justice and natural phenomena.

Superconductr: digital platform labour and neoliberal subjectivity. Matthias Kispert (presentation, 30 min)

Fiverr.com is an online platform where workers offer 'gigs'—small jobs to be completed remotely, ranging from design services to long-distance spiritual healing—for a fee of five US dollars or multiples thereof. A recent advertising campaign by the company has put forward what could be described as an aesthetics of entrepreneurial dystopia, a celebratory fusion of self-exploitation, competitiveness and sanguine disdain for reflective thought. The subjectivities constructed here, together with the labour conditions that are established through digital platform work in general, show the continuing advance of neoliberal governmentality as it was analysed by Foucault, where more and more aspects of life succumb to a logic of competition and self-interest. Algorithmic management of labour splits the subject into a series of data pointers and flows which are harvested for profit: a superconductor. My recent artist work deals with these questions and has involved operations and interventions in relation to Fiverr.com, employing a range of methods with the intention of interrogating the contradictions and potentials for resistance at play in this field.

Amnalyesia. Nathaniel Sullivan (lecture performance, 25 min)

Amnalyesia offers you certainty in an uncertain world. We offer ultra-high networth individuals the security of a luxury bunker to last out an ecological collapse, a nuclear war or any man-made or natural calamity. Everything that you desire is at your fingertips in this life. Why should that change in your bunker? For example, we offer you the opportunity to uncork a bottle of $24,000 wine, taking in the marvel of your 125-foot indoor waterfall as the world descends into drought and violent chaos. It all begins with your bunker. Our brokers are ready to satisfy any of your whims at a moment's notice. Because after all, that is all we may have.

Committee on Activism VI. Films on Norwegian anti-migrant campaigns and anti-racist struggles in UK and resistance to ethno-nationalism in Yugoslavia

Erna's Video. Karl Ingar Røys (film, 30 min)

Erna Solberg, the current Prime Minister from the Norwegian Conservative Party Høyre, decided to use media as a political tool in order to attempt to reduce the influx of asylum seekers coming from the Balkans to Norway. These TV-productions were produced and broadcast locally in Balkan countries without informing viewers that they were funded and initiated by Norwegian sources. This lies in stark contrast to the principles promoted by Norwegian educational projects in the Balkans regarding fair and objective journalism, which have also been initiated by the same politicians. In the film 'Erna's Video', the Norwegian artist Karl Ingar Røys analyses the production of documentaries whose aim is to inform the population of less developed countries in Europe and worldwide of Norwegian tough immigration requirements.

Where Were You in 1992? Rastko Novaković & Amanda Egbe (film + discussion, 60 min)

'Where Were You in 1992?' is a multi-platform project that contends with the technologies and practices of activism in the 1990s. Starting from the anti-racist struggle in the UK and the resistance to ethno-nationalism in Yugoslavia, the project explores the legacy of European 'liberalism', 'multiculturalism' and 'social cohesion' and contrasts these with notions of solidarity, anti-racism, and anti-authoritarianism. The project is based at MayDay Rooms (London) and gathers hitherto unseen or forgotten testimonies and materials using an open-source platform (pan.do/ra).

The authors will present a yet unfinished film work (ca. 15 mins, to be premiered in April 2018) and audio-visual materials, oral testimony and historical documents from their growing archive. They will lead a discussion on radical visual approaches to the archive, exploring strategies that overcome existing historical narratives and instead center personal and collective histories with their coincidental international character. With particular focus on Pula as location of the conference, the authors will make prior contact with and invite local Croatian respondents and discussants.
